Martin Luther King, Jr. Commission

To All Students & Teachers K-12

Join us for the 11th Annual MLK Web Design Contest

Celebrating Dr. King's birthday & promoting the acceptance of diversity!

Submissions due:
Monday, December 7, 2009
3:00 p.m.

Individuals as well as class projects are welcome!

Use your Web design skills
to answer the question:
"If Martin Luther King were alive
today, what advice would he give to President Barack Obama?"

To submit your entry, go to:
http://www.mccsc.edu/mlk/

Judging will be based on relevance to theme, quality and cohesiveness of the web design, writing, use of graphics, organization, and ease of navigation.

You may use text, graphics, art, audio, and video in your Web design.

Indiana University's School of Informatics and Computing graduate students will serve as judges.

Winners are awarded cash prizes and recognized at the MLK celebration on Monday, January 18th, First Methodist Church, 219 E. 4th Street, Bloomington.
